

The BRIT SEED School Presents

Pollinator Partnerships: Their World and Ours

Exploring the interdependency of plants and pollinators in our community

Date: February 25, 2012

Time: 9 a.m. - noon

Cost: $35.00 ($31.50 for BRIT members or REAL School Gardens Schools) Breakfast, 3 CPE credits, and materials are included

Registration: on-line registration is available at www.brit.org

Registration deadline is February 10

The bi-annual Butterflies in the Garden event is returning to the Botanic Gardens and BRIT in March 2012, and to mark the return of this event BRIT is excited to host a workshop celebrating the role of pollinators in Texas. This workshop is open to all K-5 grade educators, and is highly recommended for educators taking their students through the BITG field trip.

Participants will:

- expand their understanding of our native plants and the pollinators they attract.
- recognize local pollinators, their habitats and roles in the local environment.
- learn how to create habitats for native pollinators.
- gain a better understanding of what effects butterfly behaviors.
- recognize adaptations of pollinators and plants that allow for pollination.
- be introduced to activities that reinforce the lifecycle of insects (metamorphosis).

For more information about this workshop, please contact Tracy Friday at tfriday@brit.org.

